Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should not be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, it is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. 36-ct.

A LETTER

From Colonel Breckinridge to a Friend, Making an Appeal For Support.

The Manifest Statement That Could be Made Under the Circumstances.

Our friend, Captain B. A. Tracy, of Winchester, is in receipt of the following letter from his old comrade in arms, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge. Captain Tracy is, himself, too true a man to desert, in his hour of need, an old comrade with whom he had shared the dangers and privations of that pitiless storm that swept over our country thirty-odd years ago. He is too good a man though to excuse or apologize for, the fearful shame and degradation that has been exposed in that old comrade's life. But beyond and above all this, he is too merciful a man and too earnest a christian gentleman not to feel a burning desire to say or do something that shall, in some way, help his friend in the hour when almost every man is pointing the finger of scorn at him. So he sat down and penned his friend a letter, as full of sympathy as the exigencies of the case would admit.

For the benefit of our many readers in Col. Breckinridge's district, we take advantage of Captain Tracy's permission to give the subjoined reply:

God pity the man who wrote it, for unless his heart is dry as summer's dust it must bleed at memory of his transgression; and unless we very much mistake, between the lines we can read, as bitter a cry as wailed out from Esau's crushed and repentant heart when he understood too late what he had lost in the despised birthright.

"MY DEAR OLD COMRADE:—From the bottom of my heart I thank you for your letter of April 9th.

"I want you and such friends as you to understand that I do not seek a vindication; I do not ask the people of my district to approve or to censure; I do not look upon a vote for me as meaning that what I have done is, in the judgment of the voter, something that does not deserve censure; on the contrary I have stood under oath, in the presence of God, of the court and the country that no one could condemn it more than I do and have done. I do not defend myself upon the low ground that others have been equally guilty, and that my guilt is that I have been found out; I repudiate every form of defense which weakens the claims of morality, and that may impair the ties of society, nor shall I ask the people of my district to vote for me on any such grounds. The question I shall submit to them is whether, under all the circumstances, public and private, they think it best to reject my proffer for future service or are willing still to trust me. They know my weakness, and they know my virtues and my capacities; they know whether I am competent to represent them on the floor of Congress; whether I am able to voice their sentiments and to do good work for their interests; and whether taking my whole life and not a detached part of it, not a mere segment of it, but my whole life in all its relations, public and private, they can afford to have the field of my labor the House of Representatives, and it is upon this general ground that I want my friends to present my case to the district; and such men as you who know my whole life can do me great service by seeing to it that the true ground upon which I stand is understood. My career is not closed whether I am elected to Congress or not. There is plenty of work for some one to do in the world, work for God and my country in good causes, and I have enough strength to enable me to do a man's work every day for years to come. I have incentives which will make me do the best work of which I am capable. This suit has not impaired my sweet domestic relations; it has not impaired my intellectual or physical capacities. It has not destroyed my friendships; and while the storm of the public press is still pitiless, I have happy days to come in my home life and work to do, and I manage and will manage to find something that will be worthy of my capacities, and if the good people of that district think it is to their interests to turn me out of public life, I shall not while, not utter a complaint, but stand by me, thankful for the kind words they have uttered, and will try to do something that will justify their confidence in me. And may God bless you, my dear old comrade and friend, for the words uttered, in the midst of this pitiless storm."

Yours comrade and friend,
W. C. P. BRECKINRIDGE.

On Wednesday morning, April 18, Mrs. L. L. Harris, wife of the editor of this paper, died at her home on North Mayesville street, in this city. Hers was an active, and measured by the good she had done, an eminently successful life. She was an educator of so wide an experience and so extensive an influence, that probably one-half of the present and of the rising generation, in this section had been more or less under her influence in the school-room. The impress of her character will be felt, in this community, for a long time to come. The story of this life in its daily walk, either in the school-room or the higher duties of church life, is too well known to need a recall to the minds of her friends. That the community appreciated her and the efforts she put forth for the good of those around her, has been too substantially shown, both during her lifetime and at the time of her departure, to leave a single doubt as the place she occupied in the esteem of those with whom she was so long associated. So far as the life of the wife and mother is concerned, it is too blessed and the memory of its blessedness too sweet, to have its perfume lost in the least degree, by an exposure to public gaze.

"What is death? Oh, what is death? 'Tis the snapping of the chains, 'Tis the breaking of the ties, 'Tis the relief from every pain, 'Tis the freedom from the snare, 'Tis the setting of the sun, 'Tis the rest from to-morrow, 'Tis the light of glory to come, 'Tis the end of all our sorrow, 'Tis the end of all our pain, 'Tis the end of all our strife, 'Tis the end of all our life."

What is death? Oh, what is death? 'Tis the snapping of the chains, 'Tis the breaking of the ties, 'Tis the relief from every pain, 'Tis the freedom from the snare, 'Tis the setting of the sun, 'Tis the rest from to-morrow, 'Tis the light of glory to come, 'Tis the end of all our sorrow, 'Tis the end of all our pain, 'Tis the end of all our strife, 'Tis the end of all our life."

There has been a battle reported from Indian Territory between the Dalton gang and a party of United States Deputy Marshals. Early reports looked like it had been a bloody fight. Another account of that reported battle shows that the Daltons were thirty miles away and the only persons injured were a non-combatant German, who was killed, and a girl who was wounded.

The Executive Committee of the National Republican League met in Washington yesterday. One subject for consideration is the report of a committee appointed at the convention in Louisville last year on the condition of the Republican party in the South.

Mrs. Charles Evans died at her home in this city, on Thursday morning, leaving behind her a loving husband and eight children—one a babe of but a few days, all of whom needed so much the wife and mother's devotion and helpful care. Mrs. Evans was a devoted christian woman, who found time amid her many household cares, to give to the work of the Master much time. She was an active member of the C. W. B. M., and attended to the duties that fell in her way with a fidelity that won for her the highest regard of her associates. The funeral service was held at the christian church on Friday morning, Elders H. D. Clark and B. W. Trimble conducting it.

Mr. Wm. Reese has rented of Judge H. Clay McKee, one of his elegant new storerooms on West Main street, opposite the Masonic Temple, and will at once open in the jewelry business. Mr. Reese was for many years engaged in this line in Mt. Sterling, and is known as a reliable dealer and painstaking workman. He will give special attention to the repairing department of his business and promises prompt and efficient service on all work entrusted to his hands.

Many lives were lost by the earthquake shock that began throughout Greece Friday night. In some instances the bodies of entire families were taken out of the wreckage dead. In the village of Proskani thirty persons were crushed to death while at church, and at Martino, thirty-nine were killed, most of whom were at worship. At last reports received 160 were known to have lost their lives, and the belief is that many more will be added to the list. The property loss throughout the kingdom, it is feared, will be immense.

"Laugh and Grow Fat." Mr. Skillman, of South Carolina, will lecture at the Court House Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents. The philosophy of language will be discussed, and while it will be exceedingly interesting it is so funny that it will convulse his audience with laughter. The lecture is a living example of the subject, "Laugh and Grow Fat." Every one who wants to enjoy a hearty laugh and feel good for the coming Sunday should invest in this lecture. Mr. Skillman has delivered this lecture twice in the city of Louisville, the last time to a crowded house. The lecture is spoken of in the highest terms.

It is the duty of grand juries to bring transgressors of the laws before the court, by indictment. Their guilt or innocence is proven before the petit jury. If murder or smaller offenses have been committed, grand juries can do no more than to bring the parties into court.

Rev. G. B. Thrasher, of the Beattyville Baptist church, preached at the Baptist church here last Wednesday night and received a contribution to be used in building his new house of worship, at Beattyville.

R. H. Ware, of Helges, bought last week 15 head of top cattle here, weight about 1400 pounds at 3 cents. These were purchased of Trimble & Allen, and of Mr. Salyers.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER.

Campaign Pledges Must Be Fulfilled
filled
And Those Senators Who are Obstructing Tariff Reform
Are Treated to a Stinging Rebuke.

Mr. Cleveland writes the following letter to Hon. C. F. Black. It will be read with even more interest than are usually given Mr. Cleveland's very interesting documents. The letter is as follows:

Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., April 21.—Hon. Chauncey F. Black, Esq.,—Dear Sir: I have carefully read the communication you lately placed in my hands, setting forth the future purposes and present needs of the National Association of Democratic Clubs. The achievements of this organization should be familiar to all who are interested in the continuation of Democratic supremacy and should enlist the encouragement of those who appreciate the importance of any effective dissemination of political doctrine.

Your association has done much by way of educating our people touching the particular subjects which are recognized as belonging to the Democratic faith; but it seems to me that its best service has been an enforcement and demonstration of the truth that our party is best organized and most powerful when it strives for principles instead of spoils, and that it quickly responds to the stimulus supplied by an enlistment in the people's cause.

This acknowledgment of the important services rendered to the advancement of true Democracy suggests that the National Association of Democratic Clubs and every other Democratic agency should labor unceasingly and earnestly to save our party, in this time of its power and responsibility, from the degradation and disgrace of a failure to redeem the pledges upon which our fellow countrymen intrusted us with the control of their Government.

All who are charged, on behalf of the Democratic party, with the redemption of these pledges should now be impressively reminded that as we won our way to victory under the banner of Tariff Reform, so our insistence upon that principle is the condition of our retention of the people's trust; and that fealty to party organization demands the subordination of individual advantages and wishes, and the putting aside of petty and ignoble jealousies and bickerings, when party principles and party integrity and party existence are at stake.

I cheerfully enclose a contribution to the funds necessary to carry on the good work of your organization, with a hearty wish for its continued success and usefulness.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

All those interested in forming a base-ball club in this city should be at J. M. Isola's at 8 o'clock to-night. D. T. Apperson, J. M. Isola and D. R. Maupin, will be there ready to tell you anything you want to know about it. This is not a bad move in the interest of the city, as visiting teams will always spend their money here, and it will be quite a pleasant recreation for lovers of the national game. Richard Apperson, of the Ann Arbor team, and Wm. Punch, of the St. Mary's College team, will be with the boys this year.

In Europe there are 518,400 inches in the United States, 168,900.

Clouds are on the average about five hundred yards in thickness.

The largest apes have only sixteen ounces of brain; the lowest men have thirty-nine.

France has more persons over sixty years of age than any other country; Ireland comes next.

All the glaciers in the Alps would not equal one of the largest in our Territory of Alaska.

The amount of air that a man will inhale in twenty-four hours will fit seventy-eight hogs-heads and weigh fifty-three pounds.

A scientist who has investigated the matter, states that the men who are employed in the Paris sewers are as healthy as the average person, and no other eight hundred men in that city are so free from syphilitic diseases.

Saccharine has a rival. A new substance called valz is now being manufactured in Berlin, under a patent, and it is claimed to be two hundred times sweeter than sugar, and free from the objectionable properties of saccharine.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood disease. But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in this painful and very prevalent malady. It seldom fails of radical cure.

Simply is the character of the spring of life, costliness becomes its autumn; but a neatness and purity, like that of the snowdrop or lily of the valley, is the peculiar fascination of beauty to which it lends enchantment, and gives what amiability is to the mind.—Longfellow.

The bluebottle fly discharges a not unimportant duty as a natural scavenger. In her case of maggot must devour large quantities of putrefying and decaying matter, and must therefore remove from the earth's surface much material offensive, if not disease-producing, in its tendencies.

In the discharge of this place set before the best example; for imitation is a globe of precepts; and after a time set before the thing own example; and examine thyself strictly whether thou didst not best at first. Neglect not also the examples of those that have carried themselves ill in the same place; not to set off thyself by taxing their memory, but to direct thyself what to avoid.—Lord Bacon.

For the feeding of London, a little more than 323,089 tons of meat, poultry and general provisions were delivered during the year from the public market alone. This total was some 1500 tons more than in any previous year. There was an increase of over 10 percent. In the supplies of American meats; 939,442 animals passed through one cattle market of the metropolis and 141,130 through another, all going to supply the city with food. These figures, of course, only indicate a part of the supplies.

It is not always easy to see or decide just when to stop pouring liquid into a funnel while filling a lot of bottles. There is liability of the liquid slopping over and going to waste. George H. Whight of Galveston, Tex., has therefore devised a way to stop the flow automatically at the right moment. He has a float, small enough to slip down in the neck of the bottle a little way. It hangs there loosely until the rising level of the contents forces it upward, and along with it a wire which then closes a valve in the funnel.

Frogs, whether blind or not, become dark green or black if they are kept in a dark vessel in a springly-lighted room; but when a large branch with green leaves is introduced into the vessel, they all recover their bright green color, whether blind or not. In some way unknown the reflected green light acts either upon the nerves or the skin, or—what seems more probably, if Steinach's experiments are taken into account—directly upon the pigment cells. Moreover, the operations derived from the toes have also an influence upon the changes of color. When the bottom of the vessel is covered with a felt or with a thin wire net, the frogs also become black, recovering their green color when a green branch is introduced into the vessel.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Congress.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Marcus C. Lisle of Clark county as a candidate for Congress, in this the Tenth District, to succeed himself, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Jo M. Kendall, of Floyd county as candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Matt C. Clay as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

It is said the Hon. W. C. Owens wants an early primary to select a candidate for Congress in the Ashland district. He is afraid "Willie" will grow in strength.

The Democratic Committee, of Montgomery county, will meet at the Court House in Mt. Sterling, on Saturday, April 28, 1894, at 2 o'clock p. m.

H. R. FRENCH,
Chairman.

The South Carolina Supreme Court through Chief Justice McIver, has declared the State Dispensary Law unconstitutional. This decision allows whiskey dealers to openly do business in the state, the same as before the law went into effect. The attempted execution of the law has been the cause of much disturbance in the state.

In the Senate Friday Mr. Hawley, of Connecticut, administered a severe personal rebuke to Mr. Allen for the speech of the latter which he referred to the Coxeyites as "the people." The Senator from Connecticut declared that "the speech of the Senator from Nebraska was such as would be received with applause by a gang of anarchists, and it would not require a microscope to discover in it microbes and bacilli of anarchy."

The Republican Senators, as part of their plan to delay the Tariff Bill, will attempt to continue the general debate another week, notwithstanding the agreement that the consideration of the bill by paragraphs should be commenced to-morrow. Senator Harri- said that a disposition be shown to continue to make long speeches he will move for an extension of the hours for debate, and either exhaust the discussion or the Senate.

A bill involving a crazier scheme than Coxey's was introduced in the House by Representative John Davis, one of the enrious products of Kansas brought to the front by the Populist upheaval. He proposes that the Secretary of War enlist an industrial army of 500,000, to be employed on public works and be paid as regular soldiers. The small matter of the expense of the scheme is to be met by issuing $250,000,000 of fiat money and annually thereafter $100,000,000.

An indignant West Virginia miner has done much toward stopping a strike in his section. The miner protested against the efforts of an agitator to induce the 25,000 miners of the Flat Top region to strike. In the controversy that followed the agitator was stabbed to death. The other agitators in that section disappeared, and the men are determined not to strike.

The heaviest electrical storm and rain known for years visited Beaty, Ills, Wednesday night. The exchange of the Harrison Telephone Company was burned out, entailing a heavy loss to the company in instruments and switch boards. The Bell Telephone and Electric Companies were badly damaged. A terrific wind and rainstorm swept New Athens, damaging houses. Fences and trees were blown down.

The striking ribbon weavers, of Patterson, N. J., are preparing for the tramp to New York. Six striking broad silk weavers were arrested Thursday for inciting riot at the Passaic mill. Six girls were also arrested on complaint of Joseph Bamford, of Bamford Bros., silk manufacturers for intimidating nonunion weavers. The 3000 silk dyers in that city decided to march to the City Hall and demand work of the city authorities. They also asked aid for their starving families of the Poormaster.

What Will The Harvest Be?

The country over began by laughing at Coxey's Commonwealth Army. The day for laughter has passed and the movement inaugurated by a crank has passed that stage when it can be laughed at. Serious men are putting on very serious faces as they begin to ask where is this movement to end, and what is its portent? We are suddenly waking to the fact that we may be on the eve of a social and an industrial upheaval, the outcome of which no man can foretell. That there are breakers ahead, and dangerous ones, there is no longer room for doubt. The signs of the times are unpleasantly ominous. The growing sentiment among the unemployed that the Government should furnish work for such classes, is a dangerous one, for the stability of the Republic. For years the warning cry has been raised, to close our doors against an objectionable class of immigrants; but though the danger signal was hung out, it was unheeded. It may be we will pay later for offering an asylum to the scum of Europe. The vicious class among the Hungarians, Poles, Italians, Germans, Chinese, etc., have for years been making such trouble in our midst, that all the better class of these people, together with the native American element, could not completely down. But while the movement above mentioned does not belong to any of these unpleasant visitors, we have admitted to our shores, and is for the present being taken up by the serious, sober, working men of the country, yet the great danger, is this dangerous element will be certain to join the movement if it assumes larger proportions and in consequence breed as trouble that would in no wise be apprehended from the native born, or even the better class of the foreign-born workmen. The strike of the coal miners on Saturday, nearly all over the United States, does not fail to add an additional element of alarm to the condition of things. For all this we have great faith in the sterling common sense of the American people, and whilst they may get wild for a little time, they generally recover themselves soon enough to escape any overwhelmingly disastrous consequences of their folly.

We call the attention of our house- hold to the advertisements of Woodland Wilkes and Crowell Denmark in this issue. Woodland Wilkes is by the sire of great race horse, Baron Wilkes, 2:18, sire of 25 in 2:30. First dam Creole by Strathmore second dam Ella, dam of Little L, 2:23; Puella, 2:29; and Mike Bowerman, 2:29. Woodland's dam is a full sister to the dam of Gabriella in Critt Davis' stable, and he says she is a faster mare than his last year's champion, Harrietta, 2:09. Woodland Wilkes is not only bred to trot, but is a fast horse. His owner thinks he will go close to 2:20 this season. His foals, and the oldest are 2-yr-olds, are not only good lookers but are finely gaited, and will be heard from on the turf. Mr. Magowan is accommodating and careful, and breeders will do well to see him before booking their mares.

Attorney Stoll, of Lexington, late Counsel for Col. Breckinridge in his suit at Washington, has written a letter, which is printed in the New York Herald, full of fiery expressions, demanding of Judge Jerru Wilson a full and complete apology for an intimation in his address before the jury, that Stoll might have been in some way connected with the perpetration of a forged letter that turned up in the trial of the case. Judge Wilson treats the matter with his merited contempt. Attorney Stoll is probably seeking a little cheap notoriety.

District Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic Committee of the Tenth Congressional District, held at Mt. Sterling, Ky., April 17th, 1894, all the members were present in person or by proxy. On motion it was, Resolved, That a Convention to nominate a Democratic Candidate for Congressman be held at the town of Campton on the second Tuesday in July, next, at 10 o'clock a. m., and the delegates thereto shall be chosen in each county on the fourth Saturday in June at two o'clock p. m. The Democratic Committee of each county shall determine the manner of selecting delegates, either by primary election, mass convention, or precinct conventions. If the latter mode is designated the delegates selected at the precinct meetings shall meet at the county seat on the Tuesday following to select and instruct the delegates to the District Convention. If a primary election is held, the Candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be entitled to receive the vote of the county in the District Convention.

R. H. VANNANT, Chm.
H. R. FRENCH, Sec'y

Congressman W. C. P. Breckinridge wants a new trial, and gives nine reasons why Judge Bradley should grant it:

1. Because the verdict is contrary to the evidence.
2. Because the evidence is not sufficient in law to sustain said verdict.
3. Because the verdict is against the weight of evidence.
4. Because the damages awarded by the jury were excessive.
5. For errors of law founded on the exceptions reserved during the trial and noted on the minutes of the Justice who tried the cause.
6. For errors of law in granting the written instructions prayed by the plaintiffs' council and in refusing instructions prayed by counsel for the defendant.
7. For errors of law contained in the charge of the Court to the jury.
8. For errors of the Court in commenting on the evidence of witnesses whose testimony was offered on the trial.

The motion is signed by Butterworth & Dowell, John T. Shelby, William McKinley and Phil. B. Thompson, counsel for defendant. Dun's weekly review of trade states that "most of the recovery realized in business has been made possible by consent of workers to accept lower wages for a time. If they insist on restoration of wages before consumptions has restored prices, many works must be closed. The great strike threatened by bituminous coal miners, and strikes of associated employes on some railroads make the future less hopeful." Despite the clamor of hard times from various sources and of "no work" from others, Bradstreet's review estimates that the number of men now on strike or idle because of strikes is 60,000.

Robert Rogers and Walter Sharpe, of Sharpsburg have gone to Texas after the remains of young Rogers a nephew of Robert Rogers who was hung by a mob Friday night. Rogers had killed a town Marshall and on trial the jury brought in a verdict for 21 years and a mob made a raid on the jail and hung him.

During the past seven days eleven important industrial plants throughout the country have shut down, while thirty-two have resumed operations, giving employment to 5,000 persons who were in enforced idleness.

There were 219 business failures throughout the United States during the past seven days, as compared with 186 the corresponding week of last year.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION

To Meet at Campton July 10 to Select a

Democratic Standard Bearer For this District.

The members of the Democratic Committee of the Tenth Congressional District met in this city Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a time, place and manner for nominating a candidate for Congress. The Committee was dissolved for several hours on the motion to hold a primary election all over the district, and the amendment to hold a convention, the vote being a tie—8 and 8. Some of the Committee insisted on Chairman Vannant casting the deciding vote as Chairman but that gentleman doubted his right to vote as Chairman of the Committee, where there was a tie; so the matter rested as it was, until Judge H. R. French, of this city, made a motion that a District Convention be held, and leave it optional with the County Committees of the several counties as to how delegates should be selected, by primary election, precinct meeting or mass convention. This motion was adopted.

Then, after several ballots were taken as to where the Convention should be held, and what date, Campton, Wolf County, was selected as the place and Tuesday, July 10th, the time.

In case a County Committee call a primary election or precinct meetings, same will be held on the fourth Saturday in June, and on the Tuesday following the precinct delegates will assemble at the county seats and select delegates to the general Convention. Should the County Committees call a mass convention, same shall be held at the county seats the fourth Saturday in June, and delegates selected to the general Convention, thus dispensing with the necessity of a meeting on the first Tuesday in July.

Nearly half a century ago a maiden lady residing in Roxborough purchased an axe from George Davis, a hardware dealer in Manayunk. The axe was in constant service, and by its many trips to the griststone was worn down until the steel blade was no longer of use. Yesterday the old lady carried the pole or head of the axe to Manayunk to have a new blade inserted. Meeting a friend, he advised her to go to Davis's store, now kept by two sons of the former proprietor, and get a new one in exchange as the old one was warranted to last a lifetime. The two Davis brothers protested against exchanging, while the lady vehemently urged her rights. A large crowd soon congregated, every one siding with the woman. She finally triumphed, and walked out of the store with a brand-new article, waving it above her head as an emblem of her victory over the firm—American Cultivator.

Elder P. G. Lester, of the particular Baptists, preached Saturday at James Radtiff's, Sunday morning at R. M. Burbridge's and Sunday afternoon at James Lane's. He went from here to Farm Dale.

Courtland P. Chensault and John H. Groves were granted license to practice law at this term of the Montgomery Circuit Court.

Mrs. Tate, wife of ex-state Treasurer, Jas. W. Tate, died at her home in Frankfort, Ky., on Monday afternoon, April 16.

Rev. Dr. E. O. Guerrant will preach at the Springfield church next Sunday April 22.

Barns For Rent.

I desire to rent on liberal terms for the season of 1894, the barns at Fair Grounds track, with track privileges. These barns are well built, with hydrants or cisterns. The track is first-class and never gets hard, making it one of the best ones in the country for training purposes. Or, will sell 100 acres of land including track and barns. G. W. ANDERSON, 25-11 Mt. sympathy in their sad affliction, in the loss of their loved one. No one can realize the grief that their poor broken hearts have to endure, but those who have had to bear the same affliction; and no one knows how to sympathize, but those who have borne the same trials. Sooner or later, we all will have a test of the same. The real sympathies are more numerous to-day than ever before, for death has visited almost every family. A few days ago a woman came to see us. She said she was so full of grief and could get no comfort or consolation, except from those who were children of sorrow. Yes, Doctor, you will miss your good wife and the children their loving mother. We have had the pleasure to meet that once happy and pleasant family in their home, and know how devoted they were to one another; but now the link is broken, and in a few years they will be united where there is no sorrow.

Stone Carving.

A street sight that interests people is the carving of the ornamental work in the fronts of buildings in course of construction. Much more stone is used in buildings now than formerly and much more carving is done, and a great deal of it is of a much more elaborate character. One firm of cut stone contractors in this city employs more than 50 stone carvers. Some stone carving is still done in the yard, but a large proportion of it is done after the stone is in place in the building. The cost is about the same, but it appears to be the fashion now, adds to carve the stone after it is in place, and on large jobs it makes a great saving of time.

Models of the carvings are made at the stonemason's yard by an expert modeler and stone carver from the drawings of the architect. These models are made first in clay for the architect's inspection. They are then cast in plaster. The plaster model stands near the carver in the yard or lies near him upon the scaffold on the front of a building. Stone carvers get from $1.50 to $5.50 a day for eight hours work. They are expert workmen—they rarely make a mistake. —Philadelphia Press.

Soaped Poetry.

A correspondent, who confesses to an unquenchable devotion to pib, asks with sincere apprehension whether a certain European practice, to which he refers, has yet been reported as in vogue this side of the Atlantic. It appears that continental bakers are in the habit of mixing soap with their dough to lighten their bread and pastry. The quantity of soap used in fine pastries, like waffles, fritters, etc., is much larger than in bread. The soap is dissolved in water, some oil is added to it, and the mixture, after being well whipped, is added to the flour. The crumbs of the bread made by this process is said to be lighter and more spongy than the ordinary loaf. If the American public has adopted, or is about to adopt, this Belgian trick of soaping dough, he has saved an immense amount of uneasiness by keeping the fact to himself. But most men will occasionally eat far less wholesome substances than soap with complacency and even with gusto, and this seems to be one of those cases where 'tis folly to be wise.—Exchange.

Too Eager Surburses.

It is not nearly so much a case of restriction was put upon the disposition of surgeons in this town to slice open their fellow creatures in the interest of the complaint called appendicitis! That late absurd and lamentable operations have cost the lives of several citizens will strengthen the opinion which begins to be pretty generally current that appendicitis is not in the minds of the metropolitan surgeons, and that human life would be safer in New York if the operation was forbidden except by order of a court.

The public knows altogether too much about appendicitis, and the doctors altogether too little. Two-fifths of the genuine cases result from scare in the patients, and one or two more-fifths of all the cases exist only in the imagination of the surgeons. The cure of such legitimate cases as are left is not worth what it costs. Appendicitis is played out. The invention of the operation for it has changed a very real malady into a common and dangerous disease.—Life.

Hummed With a Deep Parrot.

One of the most remarkable characters of the lower river in the old days was a hunter boatman named Nathan Lask. For some reason he gave up boating and took to hunting, living in a snug cabin on the banks of the river just where a large stream, the Big Mammelle creek, empties into it. His sole companion was a large green parrot, to whom he devoted a great part of his time, and which became a wonder. He taught the bird to imitate the goidling of turkeys and the quacking of ducks, and thus the parrot acted as his decoy. The bird seemed to take delight in the sport too. It never made a mistake and quacked when it ought to have goided, but seemed to understand the kind of game its master was after and called accordingly. —St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Hairpins.

Hairpins are made by automatic and very complicated machines. The coiled wire is put upon drums and becomes straightened as it feeds itself to the machine. It passes along until it reaches two points, where it point the ends at the same time that they cut it to the length required. This piece of wire then slips along the iron plate until it is forced into the through which it is pressed into the regular shape. The hairpins are then put into a pan and jammed, after which they are heated in an oven with a temperature of from 300 to 400 degrees. —Yankee Blade.

What We owe to Cookery.

Edward Eggleston traces the cookery of the middle ages that led to the discovery of America. "The rage at that time for spices for flavoring purposes," said the doctor in a lecture, "sent the Portuguese south to their discoveries in Africa and sent Columbus in quest of India." —San Francisco Argonaut.

THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND.

She is Lavish in Dress and Very About Her Appearance.

Queen Victoria has many pretty feet despite her bulky, unwieldy frame. They are smaller and daintier than the feet of any of her children. She always wears an old-fashioned long-sleeved gaiter, and her last is in the keeping of the provincial boot-makers at Windsor and Balmoral, as well as the court maker in London. Likewise have the provincial drapers the block upon which are fashioned her majesty's caps. The caps are always made of fine white crepe lisse. The queen orders these caps by the dozen. Six caps generally suffice for a single sojourn at Windsor castle. Six dozen nightdresses are crumpled during a Windsor visit. Never is the same nightdress worn a second time, even after laundering. Who gets them? Ah, that's the head dresser's secret. It is suspected that she slips a fine trade in royal rubbish. Her majesty's mantles are made after the same model. They number six for winter and six for summer wear. Black materials of various degrees of weight and warmth make the winter wraps, while those reserved for summer are made of rich white silk, daintily lined and trimmed with four or six bands of narrow black braid or cord and finished with deep black silk "ribbons." The white mantles are worn when Victoria takes her daily drive in the vicinity of Windsor.

On the occasion of the opening of the constitution founded in London in commemoration of her majesty's jubilee the Duke of Connaught delivered in person to the provincial draper the order for her majesty's bonnet and mantles. Not until the night before the auspicious event, however, did the duke confess to the queen that he had ordered the neck of the mantle to be trimmed with certain feather trimming. The queen was much disturbed. She retired before the mantle put in an appearance at the castle, but she could not sleep. "If there are feathers on my dress," she finally announced to the maid, "I will not wear it tomorrow. The people will say: 'There's the queen! She is fatter than ever!'" Needless to add the feathers were discarded.

There is much excitement in the royal household in preparing for a state function. Every article on her dresses and hats and comes in for her majesty's inspection days before the event takes place. The effect is so likely to produce on the public beholder is weighed and considered as carefully as the personal like or dislike of the wearer. Next to her majesty's sleeping chamber is the dressing room. It is a long, low shelves, her mantles, caps and shoes are laid. They make a curious picture—a study in black and white. Two black and white gowns and a pair of her to bed. Before she gets to bed they heat and spread between the Irish linen sheets a white blanket, part wool, part cotton and bound with white silk ribbons with the alarm embossed in the corner. With brandy and water for a night-cap, Queen Victoria reclines upon the bed until the body is thoroughly heated. The maids then withdraw the blanket, and the finest product of Ireland's loom embraces the queen of England and the empress of India.—New York World.

Poor Cooking.

The charming wife of a congressman noted for his excellent cooking, on behalf of his constituents and his general efficiency and unfailing good nature is quite a noted cook. When she is to entertain at dinner, she is fond of surprising her guests with a dainty dish of her own preparing. "I believe," she said, when some one complimented her on her accomplishments, "that we grow like we eat. My husband has a sensitive digestion, and bad cooking came near making a fiend of him and a maniac out of me. In fact, I have learned to cook, and I flatter myself I have succeeded. Improperly prepared food depresses any one and will transform any husband into a cynical pessimist in less than an hour. I really consider that his popularity in his district and his return to congress depend upon the food I give him and the manner in which it is prepared." —New York Ledger.

A Dead Start.

Chicago has a dancing club composed of deaf mutes. One who was asked how they got along explained that a few felt the vibrations in the floor, some had to be instructed for the time of music, and others caught the movements by sight of their neighbors. If he wanted a partner for a quadrille, he simply passed the first two minutes of the dance vertically across the palm of the left, and he thought that much easier and quicker than the formal methods of people who speak. In asking for a waltz he twirled one finger around the other, and when he wanted a polka he made the first two fingers of the right hand loop along the left palm. —Chicago Letter.

Signs of Cosmopolitanism.

Seeing that Mrs. Nucensio is such a remarkably cosmopolitan woman? —Cautique—Her linguistic attainments. It always seems to me that she must have learned her English in France and her French in England. —Chicago Record.

How Blue and Gray Blend.

[From the Blue and Gray.]

"Oh, mother, what do they mean by blue?"
And what do they mean by gray?"
I heard from the lips of a little child
As she bounded in from her play.
The mother's eyes filled up with tears;
She turned to her darling fair,
And smoothed away from the sunny brow,
The treasure of golden hair.

"Why mother's eyes are blue, my sweet,
And grandpa's hair is gray,
And the love we bear our darling child
Grows stronger every day."
"But what do they mean?" persisted the child,
"For I saw two cripples to-day,
And one of them said he had 'fought for the blue,'
The other had 'fought for the gray.'"
"The one of the blue had lost a leg,
And the other had but one arm,
And both seemed worn and weary
And sad,
Yet their greeting was kind and warm.

They told of battles in days gone by,
Till I made my blood grow chill—
The leg was lost in the Wilderness fight
And the arm on Malvern Hill.

"They sat on the stone by the farm-yard gate
And talked for an hour or more,
Till their eyes grew bright and their hearts seemed warm,
With fighting their battles o'er.
And parting at last with a friendly grasp,
In a sturdy brotherly way,
Each asking of God to spend the time
Uniting the blue and the gray."

Then the mother thought of other days,
Two stalwart boys from her river;
How they'd knelt at her side and, lisping, prayed,
"Our Father who art in Heaven!"
How one wore the gray and the other the blue;
How they passed away from sight
And had gone to the land where gray and blue
Merge in tints of celestial light.

And she answered her darling with golden hair,
While her heart was sorely wrung
With the thoughts awakened in that hour,
By her innocent prattling tongue:
"The blue and the gray are the colors of God;
They are seen in the sky at event,
And many a noble, gallant soul
Has found their passports to heaven."

Force of Early Reading.

All educators know the value of early associations on the future development of life. Especially are they careful to encourage the formation of friendship that will be helpful and improving, so as they fear no danger so much, and hold none to be guarded against so strictly, as associations and friendships that are bound to have a deteriorating effect, and that stand in the way of mental and moral progress. Their immense weight in the formation of character is proverbial. "Tell me who are a man's friends, and I will tell you what he is," is a common saying. Yet of all friendships which the young can make, those with books are, perhaps, at once the most dangerous and the least regarded. When a child begins to read, then has come his period of greatest danger, and in no crisis of his life should he be guarded more rigidly; upon the diet on which his mind then feeds will depend its whole future tone, and it will never entirely shake off the impressions for good or for ill so made upon it. In to the substance of brain and soul and heart will be absorbed the vigor the poison that lies in books, and the mark of its character on the blank whiteness of youth will be indelible, whether that whiteness is enhanced or sullied. The force of early reading is never entirely broken.

Touching dauides, let us consider, with some scientific strictness, what a dandy specially is. A dandy is a clothes-wearing man—a man whose trade, office and existence consists in the wearing of clothes. Every faculty of his soul, spirit, purse, and person is heroically consecrated to this one object—the wearing of clothes wisely and well; so that, as others dress to live, he lives to dress. The all importance of clothes * * * has sprung up in the intellect of the dandy without effort like an instinct of genius; he is inspired with cloth, a poet of cloth. —Carlyle.

TARIFF IN THE SENATE.

Before the merry month of May comes the Senate should have passed a tariff-reform bill.—Boston Globe.

A short limit on speeches should be in order. Promises must be redeemed on the schedule time, else the redemption will count but for little.—Memphis Appeal-Avalanche.

The bill ought to be amended and passed, but above all things should it be acted upon speedily. Let the debate be short and to the point—and so only can the Senate hope to recover some of its lately lost prestige.—Springfield Republican.

Whatever has been done in the Senate—if anything be accomplished—must pass the ordeal of conference committee, and it is in these bodies that the great battle between protection Democrats for personal revenue and lower-tariff Democrats will take place.—Boston Transcript.

The party in power is under pledge to revise the tariff, and since it has the votes necessary to pass the bill now before the Senate a failure to do so with reasonable promptness will be a confession of inability or unwillingness to make a good campaign promise.—Philadelphia Times.

The tariff debate in the Senate is likely to be prolonged altogether out of proportion to the number or the importance of the changes in the pending measure that will be accomplished by it. These, in all probability, will be neither many or essential—the compromisers and log-rollers having already put the bill in the form that will command the largest possible vote in the upper chamber.—Providence Journal.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis. was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shephard, Harrodsburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used seven bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, Ohio, had large liver sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle liver sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

Good Looks.

Good looks are more than skin deep, depending upon a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the Liver be inactive, you have a Bilious look. WILL THEY NEVER LEARN.

Rhode Island's Majority.

The people of the United States had become weary of an extravagant Republican administration; even honest Republicans had had enough of Legislation for the classes against the masses and they with the Democratic voters had looked into every avenue of political faith for relief and found none better than that offered by the Democratic party. It was this faith that actuated this entire country in its selection of a Democratic President and Congress in 1892. They believed in the Chicago Platform and had faith in the party that they would carry out effect the principles there declared. That document was a contract between the party and the people. Has it been carried out? What reasons can the party give for its failure to comply with the peoples wishes. We know but one, and that is that some of the Representatives of the Congress posing as Democrats are only so by name for were they true to principle they would be for the adoption of every Democratic measure and this they failed to do, fighting in their own ranks and often voting with the Republican party. There is a deplorable state of affairs at Washington and the party is in no manner responsible for the actions of its Representatives, having announced themselves squarely on the party principles. We say the people have tired from waiting and as proof of their displeasure is notable the increased Republican majorities in recent state and municipal elections. They have had enough of this unrest, and if the Democrats won't work to gether how can they expect better things?

The handwriting is on the wall and Democrats must make good their pledges or be doomed.

Oh! The Pity of It!

It is one of the marvels of modern depravity that the people in their sovereign capacity as voters should so degrade their manhood as to be oblivious to both moral and political obligations, and prostitute their sovereign power of protection to throw around this demum of selfish cruelty, the liquor traffic, a garb of legal respectability, using the forms of law to subvert the very object of law,—should even provide for their feast these licentious beverages and use this criminal tendency, even perverting and quoting Scripture to justify this fraud and injury.—From "A Strange Anomaly," in Demorest's Magazine for May.

The Southern Baptist Convention

Will be held at Dallas, Texas, May 11 to 15, 1894. Large numbers of Baptists, in all parts of the South, are interested in the questions how to reach Dallas, and what it will cost.
